BLACKLINE

BlackLine, Inc. a leading provider of financial controls and automation software solutions that enable Continuous Accounting, has appointed veteran Finance and Accounting (F&A) executive Tammy Coley as chief strategy officer. Formerly executive director, Enterprise Accounting and Internal Controls Governance at leading broadband communications company and long-time BlackLine customer Cox Communications, Ms. Coley brings deep industry and product experience to BlackLine.

Coley is a visionary accounting leader with a deep understanding of how accounting processes intersect with modern technology. In her new role, she will help direct BlackLine's strategic vision as the financial automation software provider continues to help customers transform their F&A operations through the use of BlackLine's cloud software tools. More importantly, Coley's background as a customer herself ensures that, even as BlackLine continues to grow, the customer experience remains the company's core focus.
